Myrtle Consulting Group Invests in the Community through C-STEM

Philanthropy and community engagement are critical elements toward empowering sustainable transformations for clients and communities

HOUSTON, August 7, 2019 – Myrtle Consulting Group, a leading firm delivering sustainable operational transformations to global manufacturing, processing, and distribution companies, announced today that they are proud to sponsor a scholarship through C-STEM.

As one of the key components in their Corporate Social Responsibility program, Myrtle invests in their community through philanthropic actions. Che McFerrin, manager of the Myrtle Supplier Diversity program, stated, "Today Myrtle did not just provide a check to C-STEM, but we believe that we changed someone's life...whether a professional working with youth or youth that will step into their dreams tomorrow. Myrtle Consulting Group believes in providing philanthropic outreach to organizations that continue to shape the future."

Kenya Bosso, Staffing Consultant at Myrtle, states, "Since 2002, C-STEM has been an organization lead by Dr. Flowers that gives teachers the resources necessary to get kids of all ages excited about STEM. Myrtle Consulting Group is happy to donate to C-STEM to help create an impactful, integrated STEM education for tomorrow's world."

Myrtle lives and works through a united set of core values that spell out the acronym RESPECT; results-focused, ethical, strategic, pragmatic, engaged, committed, and tenacious. Whether on a project or engaged in their communities, Myrtle empowers sustainable transformation; desiring to leave everything they touch better than they found it.
